Maish, Calvin - Obituary

CARSONITE IS DEAD AT TAHOE

Carson City Daily Appeal, June 25, 1913

Word came from Glenbrook last evening announcing the death of Calvin H. Maish, one of the pioneer residents of this city and western Nevada.

Mr. Maish and family moved to Glenbrook early this spring as the old gentleman's health was not the best and he longed for the outing in the pines and near the lake side. While his condition did not improve materially, yet no fatal results were anticipated. He sustained a paralytic stroke some time ago, and recently dropsical conditions developed in his left side, which resulted in his death.

Cal Maish was among the early settlers in Carson. He came here about 48 years ago. He was then engaged in business with Nudge Mara in the building now known as the old laundry. He later conducted a furniture store over Benton's stable, later being employed several years in the Mint. For the past several years he has maintained a general repair shop and his work was of the fine order, being of every class, and he was the handy man of this section.

Mr. Maish and wife have made this city their home since they were married, the two children, Mrs. Davey and Arthur Maish, growing to their majority here. The family has the sympathy of the entire community.

Cal Maish was a native of Kentucky, where he was born 74 years ago. He joined the Federal army at the outbreak of the war, being in the first call. For many years he was an enthusiast on military organizations, and was Captain of the local militia at one time. He took a keen interest in the old guards and their shooting records and was one of the best shots in the ranks. For the past few years he has kept pretty close to home as his business was at that place and his infirmities grew with his years.

The remains will be brought to this city for interment. Funeral arrangements will be announced later. Cal Maish will be missed by all who knew him.

C. H. MAISH IS AT REST

Carson City Daily Appeal, June 27, 1913

The funeral services of the late Calvin H. Maish took place this afternoon from the family residence. Score of friends congregated to pay their last respects to this pioneer resident and the bier was massed in flowers. The service at the home were conducted by Rev. Hornaday, which were most impressive.

Leaving the home the members of the G.A.R. led the funeral procession, while the Spanish War Veterans were acting as an escort. The G.A.R. services were rendered at the grave. The choir which sang at the home and the grave was most sympathetic.

The following acted as pall bearers: George H. Meyers, E. Mara, George Wilcox, Henry Rosenbrock, Andrew Mante and Charles Brulin.
