CARSON CITY BOARD OF SUPERVISORS

Minutes of the January 21, 2016 Meeting

In reference to the performance measures, Chief Building Official Shawn Keating stated, “the permit center itself is a collaboration between City staff and Charles Abbott staff. It's an interdependent relationship. ... it's easy to talk about performance measures with us, specifically, and that's what it shouldn't be about. It should be about the entire permit center.” Mr. Keating advised that his “goal is to make it seamless. I don't want accolades because those are targeted things that split teams apart. It's a team that I want to build and keep there.” He reviewed the performance measures which were included in the agenda materials.

Supervisor Bonkowski advised that his firm interacts with Community Development and Building Division staff “almost on a daily basis and, the improvements that we've seen in our interactions over the last year have really been phenomenal. ... the team that we have in place now, they're efficient, they're fast, they get back to you right away, and they're solution-oriented rather than having blinders on looking at the Code ...” Mr. Keating responded to questions of clarification, and discussion ensued.

Mayor Crowell entertained public comment. (9:52:52) Nevada Builders Alliance CEO Aaron West thanked the Board and City staff for the progress made since September 2014. He expressed the opinion “it's actually exceeded our expectations ...” He advised of having received no complaints “in the entire calendar year 2015” relative to the City's Building Department. 22. PUBLIC COMMENT

23. ACTION TO ADJOURN REDEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY (10:30:37) - Chairperson Abowd adjourned the Redevelopment Authority meeting at 10:30 a.m., and returned the gavel to Mayor Crowell.

24. RECONVENE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS (10:30:50) - Mayor Crowell reconvened the Board of Supervisors meeting at 10:30 a.m.

25. PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT - INFORMATIONAL UPDATE ON STREET MAINTENANCE (10:30:55) - Mayor Crowell introduced this item, and Public Works Department Director Darren Schulz provided an overview. Transportation Manager Patrick Pittenger narrated a PowerPoint presentation, which was displayed in the meeting room and copies of which were included in the agenda materials. Mr. Pittenger, Mr. Schulz, and District Attorney Jason Woodbury responded to questions of clarification throughout the presentation. At Mr. Pittenger's request, Mr. Woodbury reviewed the April 2, 2015 letter included in the agenda materials.

In response to a question, Mr. Woodbury advised that, since 2004, the authorization of expenditures used by the RTC and / or the Board of Supervisors has been legal. In response to a further question, he advised of having been provided with no evidence that would indicate differently. In response to a question, Mr. Schulz advised that no gas tax revenues have been allocated to the City's general fund. In response to a question, Mr. Pittenger advised that, in the current fiscal year, $370,000 has been allocated from the City's general fund to the RTC. Prior to that, the City has not expended general fund money on roads. Mr. Pittenger acknowledged the accuracy of the statement that gas tax revenues cannot be used for general fund purposes. Mr. Woodbury concurred. He acknowledged that allocating gas tax revenues to the City's general fund would violate the law. He reiterated the acknowledgment that this has not been done. In response to a question, Mr. Woodbury referred to NRS 373.028(2), and advised that the provisions include "sidewalk, primarily for use by pedestrians and also, including without limitation, a long list of things. ... it's not restricted necessarily to vehicular traffic. The reason I focused on vehicular traffic is because CCMC 11.20.050 includes this statement. 'Through this paragraph,' which is the paragraph that imposes the five cent tax, 'the Board of Supervisors expresses its intent that the revenue generated by the tax imposed by this paragraph be used for the design and construction of the Carson City freeway or any arterial collector roadway or alternative route related to the movement of traffic through Carson City.'"

Mayor Crowell entertained additional Board member questions or comments and, when none were forthcoming, public comment. (11:21:03) Paul McGrath discussed concerns over the method by which the City "spends their money with respect to repairs of roads and things of this nature." He inquired as to the payments to NDOT that stopped in 2005. Mr. Pittenger explained that "the payments were actually scheduled to have an agreed-upon hiatus wherein the payments would cease for only a limited period of time to allow the City to use those funds to build the Fairview Drive project. When the payments were going to resume, rather than resuming, the City entered into ... two amendments, one in 2007, one in 2009, which both did similar things. And basically, the amendments made it so that we were relieved from millions of dollars in payments to NDOT and, in return, we received these roads from NDOT. And, as I indicated previously, ... we were relieved from payments but not entirely from the payments. So, we still owe over $7 million, but that was, by the amendment, delayed until after the completion of the freeway.”

Minutes of the January 21, 2016 Meeting

Mr. McGrath referred to a “bill authorizing the collection of that tax ... in 1997. This was duly passed and, the only reason it got passed, over all the objections of the citizens in this community, was to have this money used for the freeway only. And that was for your storm drains and everything else and it had an expiration because ... the City owed the State $19 million. And there was a lot of stipulations put in there to assure that the City would not do what you folks have done ... taken that money and use it for something other than ... The roads that you talked about ... that you've done with this nickel gas tax is in violation of this law. And this is the Dillon Rule because you had to have permission from the voters to use this type of tax or from the legislature which wasn't done.”

At Mayor Crowell's request, Mr. Woodbury explained that “as the relevant provisions of [CCMC] 11.20.050 were originally enacted in ... 1996 ... they were much more restrictive in what the money could be spent on and there was also a sunset clause. However, in 2004, pursuant to the provisions that I've cited here, this Board of Supervisors amended that. Now, they amended that by Board action. They did not go to a vote of the people and the reason that they didn't go to a vote of the people is because NRS 373.030 doesn't require you to do that. It's expressly authorized that you can have a fuel tax up to nine cents per gallon and you can expend that for street projects. It doesn't have to be related to a particular freeway or anything like that. So, what I've addressed is whether the 2004 amendment was legal in its inception and whether, since 2004, the money raised, pursuant to that provision, has been spent in a manner that is legally compliant. And the answer to those to questions are clearly yes. Now, if they, in theory, would have been in violation of the 1997 version of the ordinance, I haven't specifically looked at that because I don't really see that as the issue.”

At Mayor Crowell's request, Mr. McGrath introduced Attorney Rick McCann. Mayor Crowell explained that the District Attorney represents the City. “We're getting an opinion from the District Attorney that what you just said about legality of expenditures is incorrect. Incorrect. Not right. And that the expenditures from the RTC, from an authorization standpoint, have been legal. Legal. And it concerns me a little bit that you say that they're still illegal.” Mayor Crowell expressed understanding that “lawyers can disagree. But from our standpoint ..., I've got a District Attorney, our lawyer, who's telling us that they are legal.” He requested Mr. McGrath to “take that into consideration.”

In response to a comment, Mayor Crowell stated that the District Attorney was elected to represent the entire community. He acknowledged that the District Attorney serves as the Board's legal counsel, but reiterated that he also represents the entire community. Mr. McGrath stated that “the tax limit had been reached with the agreement that ... happened in 1997. The nine cents because it was obligated to pay for the construction of the freeway. And for phase 1 only. So, now you had to exceed that limit because you've got a four cent tax that you've already imposed upon the people to do your construction work and do the road repairs. And then adding this other nickel to go out and get the freeway started and that was a move ... to get another five cents in. Now, you've maxed the credit card out. Now, comes along in 2004 that you've got all these type of road repairs you wanted to do and you have no money to do it other than to get into that five cent gas tax that's supposed to be paying the State of Nevada. So what they should have done in 2004, instead of trying to jerryrig the darn five cents, they should have gone to the voters and said we need this money for this project and I'm sure that you would have complete cooperation with the community to get these things done. But, instead, you just take the money that was supposed to be used to pay off the highway department and you just used it for whatever you felt like."

Mayor Crowell advised that the District Attorney had "just answered that question. ... Not this Board, but the Board in 2004, ... made a decision about the expenditure of funds. Whether you or I agree with that is another question. But our District Attorney has told us, in no uncertain terms, that what the Board did in 2004, whether we agree or disagree with what they did, was legal. And that's the authorization that the RTC and this Board has been using for expenditure of funds. And we may have differing opinions on whether they should have done that but, clearly, ... it is not illegal. And I hear that term being bandied around a lot ... we all know what illegal means. It's ... an allegation of a crime. There's been no crime committed. It may be a political decision as to what happened in 2004, but it's not a crime."

In reference to the 2004 meeting, Mr. McGrath expressed the opinion "this is one of those situations where this thing got rushed through right at Christmas time. It was agendized two different ways on your agenda items ... The first time, they talked about diverting the tax and using it for other purposes. And the second one comes up and it's agendized under some Development Services. And then it talks about diverting the tax as your second reading. Now, to me, that looks like something's going wrong because if they don't agendize it properly the second time, they're trying to get away from people coming and commenting on it. And if you'll note, at that meeting, there was no public comment at all on this tax. And when you look at the tax from the original, in 1997, you had a gentleman walk into the Board meeting with the signatures of 2500 people that wanted this thing to be put on the ballot ... to prevent people, and I'm talking about the Board of Supervisors or RTC, from changing the rules on this tax use so they can use it for other personal projects or City projects."

Mayor Crowell inquired as to whether Mr. McCann believed the 2004 decision of the Board of Supervisors was legal or illegal. (11:32:11) Mr. McCann advised of not having established an opinion specifically with respect to legality or illegality. He expressed respect for Mr. Woodbury's opinion, and for the exchange of questions and answers which took place between Mayor Crowell and Mr. Woodbury. Mr. McCann advised that he serves as the Executive Director of the Nevada Association of Public Safety Officers. He articulated the situation as follows: "Number one, the City received money from the citizen tax. ... Number two, the City was mandated, at one time, to use the money for specific purposes. That goes back to 1996 or '97. Number three, the funds were used, have been used, ... admittedly so, for ... projects other than what was originally intended and designed. Now, it may have come from a change or a modification or amendment to your ordinance. I agree that that may have been the process. Nevertheless, as the [former] Sheriff has pointed out, as 2500 signatures pointed out, and as signatures on a petition that ... Mr. Marano has that he can throw up there for you that is currently being circulated and signed by constituents of this community, they're not comfortable with the fact that that happened. It's not a legal or illegal commentary ... It's a matter of why can't we see what's ... gone on? Why can't there be an audit shown? I think Mr. Shirk brought up a very valid point before. Why do we keep talking about revenue? We can't see all the expenditures. Mr. Woodbury made a comment, appropriate. He said, 'It's legal.' But if it wasn't in compliance with the original intent of your constituents, shouldn't they have an opportunity to see what it's been spent on? Because one of the things that the petition, which again if Mr. Marano can put it up there for us, ... Patrick? And to comment on that, ... it's a one-page petition that has been circulated by individuals within the community and, as you'll see, it has a remedy associated to it. It says, 'Hey, we're upset and this is what we want you to do.' And one of the things they want to do is a simple audit of what other projects, not originally intended by this tax, has the money been spent on. That, I think, follows ... a little bit about what Mr. Shirk was saying. Can we see what's been spent? And on what it has been spent?

Mayor Crowell advised that the City is audited annually, including a determination as to whether the law has been complied with. "We've had ... for the last seven years, ... clean audits. Couple different ... minor things, minor changes, but they've been clean audits. I got the political side of this. But I'd ask you, then, how far back should we go? Maybe every bond question we have, well, there were some people that didn't like the bond in the first place so maybe we should have taken a different approach on a bond. I got it that you're upset or that Paul's upset or the group here is upset that the Board vote didn't go the way they wanted it in 2004. I got that. But that happens all the time."

Mr. McCann respectfully agreed, and suggested that citizen disappointments could be taken care of in upcoming elections. He expressed understanding for the political process, and suggested going back to 2004 as "a starting point to simply provide an indication, a list, a chart, a pie, something to indicate, 'What did you pay for that was not part of the original intention?' And the ladies and gentleman sitting behind me and the ... apparently couple thousand more that may be out there may be appeased. And if they're not, well then, you won't be here next time. That's up to them. But the bottom line is, ... my concern is just trying to articulate a thought that maybe giving an audit of some sort, ... an internal audit to show what things have been spent beyond the original intent because we're not talking about people who are sitting here ... raising a flag of it's illegal ... They're saying, 'That's not what we thought it was going to be.' And you made some changes and, perhaps legally, but it still is your constituency who begs the question, 'What did you spend it on and why?'" In response to a question, Mr. McCann advised that he was "going by the commentary that's been made so far that, apparently, there were changes and there were things that were paid for that were outside of the original intent. I'm taking that on face value ..."

Supervisor Bonkowski pointed out that "like it or not, the intent was amended and the funds have been spent, according to our District Attorney, per the amended intent. So, even if we found that they were not expended per the original intent, it's irrelevant because that's no longer the intent. So, what's the theory behind this other than spending money to determine something that's irrelevant?" Mr. McCann suggested there are two functions of the Board. "Number one is fiduciary responsibility and you may very well have met that. ... Number two is transparency. You people ... have some home grown people here. ... You have people here who've been here a long time. ... Bottom line is, they simply want to know, from a transparent standpoint, where the money has gone. And I don't think that's asking too much and I don't think that's getting into the realm of ... really not relevant. That's highly relevant. That's one of the two things you're here to do: transparency and fiduciary responsibility; the latter of which you may have met; the former of which they're simply seeking."

In response to a question, Mr. McCann advised that he would not characterize the figures presented as being inaccurate. He expressed the opinion, "they simply need to be explained more than a pie chart or more than a sentence. And that's what they're asking for. That's what the audit would do. The audit would simply say, 'Hey, just for your knowledge, this is what we've paid since we made those changes.' ... and people will decide for themselves because that's really what this is about. It's not indicting people."

Supervisor Bonkowski expressed appreciation, and stated, “We make decisions twice a month that people don't like. Every meeting. And so if we had to change our position based on the fact that 2,000 people came to us and said, 'We don't like your decision,' it would bring our government here to a standstill. We're paid to make hard decisions and every time we make a hard decision, we irritate people. We make them mad. They disagree with us. That's part of our job and we have to just keep moving forward and understand that we have made the best decisions that we can based on the information that we've been provided. So the argument that if somebody brings me a petition with a hundred signatures or a thousand signatures, I appreciate that information and I will look at that information along with all the other data that I get. But, at the end of the day, I make a decision based on what's best for the long-term benefit of the community and those thousand people may go away from that thinking I made the wrong decision. I can't help that.” Mr. McCann expressed respect for the democratic process, but stated, “... it's not a hard decision. Tell them what you spent it on. That's transparency. That's not a hard decision. That's what you're here for, respectfully.”

Supervisor Bagwell expressed appreciation for Mr. McGrath and Mr. McCann bringing the issue forward, and the opinion that “the public has absolutely every right to ask for redress from its Board. So, whether we agree or not, I do thank you all ...” In response to a question of clarification, Mr. McGrath advised that “the agreement that was provided with the highway department and the City, in 1997, locked that money in to repay the loan of $19 million without any type of messing around ... And, in fact, it was even brought up during the discussion that this is going to lock the City not to get any more money for 20 years because of this action. And it was cautioned, at that time, by the RTC Member Greg Smith. ... And, when they passed this, this was really put on by Shelly Aldean. She's the one that really pushed for this thing. And you can look in the conversation in the minutes, there was a lot of caution flags. ... this is a new tax. This is not an old tax. And they finally convinced the mayor that ... they're going to vote for this thing and his vote wasn't necessary because he was right at the end of his term. ... Marv [Teixeira] is the originator of this gas tax to get the freeway started. So, when Marv come back, I mean this thing has already got all screwed up with respect to keeping this thing on track. And ... the Board was locked into the nine cent tax that was the limit that they could use for road ... And this is the time, if they wanted to do that, this is the new tax because you've diverted the ... tax that was approved only for the freeway. This would be a new tax so you would need to go back to the people and try to increase that limit through an election or approval from the legislature.”

Supervisor Bagwell noted that the City still has a $7.1 million obligation to NDOT. She expressed concern that “we haven't met that obligation and the nickel has been used to fix roads that were needed. And we can agree or disagree on which roads should or should not have been fixed. The reality is the money was used on roads.” She expressed the opinion there should be no problem to ask for a report. She suggested the issue is moot in that funding allocated to NDOT would have resulted in road construction and repair. Mr. McGrath expressed the opinion that “nothing's going to happen in the south part of town.” He requested a plan “so the people know in this community when and where you're going to fix their ... roads ... or drainage problems.” He expressed disagreement with the method by which road and drainage repairs are prioritized. In response to a question, Mr. McGrath suggested setting up a plan “and then try to match your revenues to the plan for your road repairs.” He requested the Board to consider the petition.

Supervisor Abowd pointed out that there is a system for evaluating roads and establishing priority. Mr. Pittenger provided additional clarification of the City's pavement management system. He explained, “the bottom line ... that, with the amount of money that we have to spend, even if we do ... what is most efficient and effective with the money, frankly, we will fall further and further behind. So, it's not a matter of, at the current funding level, we'll get to everybody at some point. Unfortunately, it will continue to decline. And, indeed, safety ... is very important. One thing the RTC just did was to enter into an agreement with a private entity to work together to build a traffic signal at a necessary place and we're very confident that we did the right thing to move forward with that signal. But, unfortunately, expending those funds to put into place an important traffic signal for safety purposes will reduce the amount of money available to us for pavement management." Mr. Pittenger acknowledged no one is being purposely excluded; "it's just a matter of money."

In response to a question, Mr. Pittenger advised that the portion of Carson Street, from Arrowhead Drive to Fairview Drive is owned by the City. The portion south of Fairview Drive is still owned by the Nevada Department of Transportation. Pursuant to the provisions of the amended agreement, the City will accept that road in the future. In response to a question, Mr. Schulz advised that gas tax revenues are spent on maintenance of all Carson City roads. "... our options are, either we pay with dollars the debt owed to the State or, in some cases, we have traded roads from the State for those dollars, knowing very well that that is now a maintenance liability that we are taking on. But we do an analysis to determine how much it takes to maintain those roads, how [many] millions of dollars we're supposed to pay to make that trade equitable. But both ways, we're paying money." In response to a series of questions, Supervisor Bonkowski clarified "we're trading for a future obligation. So, it's not a direct cash transfer using gas tax to acquire that road, ... but we're saying that we will take over the maintenance of this road in the future in exchange for a reduction in the debt."

In response to a question, Mr. McGrath expressed a desire for "the roads to be fixed. If this is what it takes for you to go to the vote of the people, that's fine. And I think that you would feel much better about it knowing that the voters wanted you to do what you're doing with the money as opposed to just shifting the money around and trying to figure out what ... pothole to fill, as opposed to ... you've got the money and you set up a plan ..." Mr. McGrath requested the Board to agendize the petition.

Discussion took place, between Mayor Crowell and Mr. McCann to clarify the request for an audit. Mr. McGrath discussed concerns over drainage issues resulting from the freeway construction. Mayor Crowell requested a report on the condition of the roadway in front of Mr. McGrath's house, and the expenditure by ward. Supervisor Bonkowski suggested "a math problem ... And it isn't going to be solved by arguing about the nine cents. What we need to come up with is a funding mechanism that is sustainable and adequate to fix our streets. That is what's going to get your street fixed in front of your house. It's not the four cents. It's not the five cents. Until we come up with a funding mechanism that is generating ... 20, 30 cents just to be able to maintain our streets and keep them from deteriorating." He thanked Mr. McGrath and Mr. McCann, but expressed the opinion "we need to have a much larger conversation about how we solve this problem because I don't see how we fix the street in front of your house on a cul-de-sac when we have our main arterial that needs $5 to $7 million worth of work."

Mr. McCann agreed with Supervisor Bonkowski's point, "but the plan that we're here to discuss ... is a plan to help these people understand where the money's gone, where it's been done, where the priorities are, whether it be by ward or otherwise. Give them data ... and then we can go from there. ... there is a greater discussion on the horizon but this will help them to understand how that discussion should go too." Mr. McGrath read into the record a portion of a December 13, 2015 Nevada Appeal article.

Mayor Crowell entertained additional public comment. (12:06:22) Tim Howard expressed the opinion “what we have here is two problems, ... non-transparency and also making problems that continue to fester instead of correcting them. The two problems, one, ... we need solutions here. The one big main problem of our streets in Carson City and to correct the situation is not to continually perpetuate and tear the streets up and not bring them back to their original condition. For example, the street that I live on, Valley View Drive, the street was perfect. It was okay. The City comes in there, tears it up to put sewer in, and then we got potholes and our street looks like we're in the middle of Watts in Chicago.” Mr. Howard expressed the opinion that street inspections should be improved. With regard to the gas tax, he expressed the opinion “you need to separate that because once you pay off the bond for the freeway, well then it ends.” He expressed a preference for the Board to clarify the matter.

(12:09:30) Krista Leach advised that she owns three one-acre parcels in the area of Bigelow Drive, and that she signed the petition. She requested the Board to understand “what our roads do look like ...” She advised of having lived in the area for 25 years, and provided background information on her residency in Carson City. She advised that “our roads are primarily chip sealed. There are parts that are not even paved yet. ... we have significant cut lines for the infrastructure because we were made to hook up to sewer not too long ago. And the maintenance that has been done is haphazard. We walk that area all the time. We don't have any sidewalks and now the freeway has essentially cut us off. We're single-family, one-acre primarily and, if you go by density of population, ... we will never have any of our roads addressed because we don't have a lot of population in the area. It's dangerous to walk on Koontz and Clearview.” Ms. Leach inquired as to the Valley View non-motorized bridge “and why it is no longer on the table because it's difficult to walk, it's dangerous to walk. It's even more dangerous to bicycle and to ride your horse and we are now cut off from the Prison Hill area.”

In response to a question, Mr. Pittenger provided background information on the non-motorized bridge. He advised that a preliminary design was completed, but no funding source was ever identified to construct the bridge. He further advised that NDOT designed the freeway in such a way that the non-motorized bridge could be implemented in the future should the City identify a funding source. In response to a question, Mr. Pittenger clarified that NDOT had never committed to a non-motorized bridge but had offered for the City to take responsibility to fund the project. (12:12:40) Ms. Leach expressed respect for the difficulties associated with prioritizing street maintenance. She reiterated, “we are not a very densely populated area and now we are significantly cut off from other areas because of the freeway construction. We desperately need to have a non-motorized bridge as well as have our roads improved.”

In response to a question, Mr. Schulz advised that population density is a factor in calculations for street repair / replacement. “We look at safety. We look at density. We look at the actual condition of the pavement. We look at ... [the number of complaints]. ... When we're talking replacing sections of road, which would go before the RTC, that's all determined by our software ... that says, if you have $500,000 this year, the best bang for your buck is to fix these three places. And we follow that.”

Mayor Crowell entertained additional public comment; however, none was forthcoming. He expressed appreciation for Mr. McGrath's and Mr. McCann's attendance and participation.
