Transcript of public comments made during the February 8, 2021, Carson City CTA Board Meeting

. . . .

Chair Jones (3:52): Right now I will ask for public comment. Desi, is there anyone, for public comment?

Desi Navarro: Yes Mr. Chair, we have a couple callers. Callers, when you hear the beep it is your turn for public comment. Please state your name for the record.

[silence]

Desi Navarro: Caller, it is your turn for public comment. Please state your name for the record.

[silence]

Chair Jones: Did we lose them?

Desi Navarro: Mr. Chair, they're, they're there, I'm just not sure that they can hear us.

First Caller: Can you guys hear me?

Desi Navarro: Ah, there we go.

Chair Jones: Alright, go ahead caller.

First Caller: Hi, can you guys hear me okay?

Chair Jones: Yes.

First Caller: Okay, perfect. My name is Sandra and I am representing the Hampton Inns here in Carson. Um, good afternoon. Um I, I just want to publicly put in my vote of confidence for the, um, for the one percent. Having been one of the original people that was here during the first go around, um, I can say that, in all honesty I was a little hesitant when the subject came around again, um, just basing it off of everything we had experienced during the first round. Um, the only thing that I could ask is that there be a lot of transparency, um, a lot of reporting, things that you know, the lodging properties can see and be a part of. Whereas the last round we weren't included. We weren't informed of anything, um, and that was definitely the real concern. I know with this go around I, I am confident that it is going to be much better, and knowing a lot of artists in you know and having a kid that is also a very artsy kid you know I am one hundred percent full support of what ever we decide to do with the arts.

Chair Jones: Alright, well Sandra, thank you. We appreciate the comments.

First Caller: Thank you.

Chair Jones (6:24): Is there anyone else for public comment?

Desi Navarro: Caller, it is your turn for public comment.

[silence]

Desi Navarro: Caller, can you hear us, are you there?

[silence]

Desi Navarro: That is all for public comment Mr. Chair.

Chair Jones (7:00): Alright, um, if there is no other people on the phone, board member Kehm, I believe that you have a public comment that you would like to make.

Board Member Kehm: Yeah, I would also speak in support of the bill. I think it is a good idea for the, um, obvious reasons that she mentioned, and I think it does a great deal for providing additional heads in beds which is the goal, I think, for all of us. So, I would be in support of it a hundred percent.

Chair Jones (7:31): Thank you, um, I think I would like to make a public comment at this time. I will take off my chair hat and put on my lodging property hat and um, speak um, in support of continuing the one percent um tax for arts and culture. I uh I think um when I, I have said it many times that any um successful DMO and um, tourism agency has to have an arts and culture, you know, portion to it. If you don't, you're ah, I think missing the boat. I think a lot of people come to our city for a core event maybe it is a sporting event but they also look for ah other things to do when they're there. So um, um, as a lodging property operator in the city I'm um in full support of the one percent continuation um, of the tax. I just wanted to make that a public comment.

Chair Jones: (8:32): Is there any other public comment? Oh, we do have one more?

Second Caller: Yes, can anybody hear me?

Chair Jones: Yes.

Second Caller: Hi, this is Fernando calling from the new Staybridge Suites. Uh, Fernando Madrigal, I'd like to make a public comment. Our hotel ah, will be the, the newest hotel in the market. And ah, as really an outsider, someone who is, has been in, in, in Reno um for the last three years. Who has witnessed all our ah the micro events and really the, the, the stimulation to the local economy. Um, it is unbelievable, I am not original, originally from this area, I uh, uh I have been amazed at how much activity does go on. Um, primarily with the art cultures. You know Burning Man brings a significant, you know, just singling out one event and, and, and really the, the attitude toward art is extremely welcoming here in this city and geographically I think that we, as Carson City, you know, we're, we couldn't be in a more ah in a better geographical position. We're in between one of the fastest growing cities, you know a report came out that Reno specifically has, ah number four in terms of just ah, you know ah, ah, ah soft, bedrock for the local economy during everything that is going, you know that is happening right now. Um, were right in, um were gonna were gonna be a feeder that is going to be a feeder city for us, they are you know they are they committed to the art and you know we have one of the most pristine art pictures, and art, artsy um you know, ah, ah, Lake Tahoe, what a piece of art, you know, that we have in our backyard. So we're in between both of those worlds' um natural art and just the, the artistic point were you do have people in this city who are interested in, in, in really pushing that agenda forward. And the way I see it this isn't a one-year project that's, you know we have the ability to push for the next three to five years, you know, five to ten years to be a, a hub for arts and tourism. And um, I fully support all of the efforts being made and the tax. So that's, I just wanted to make that public.

Chair Jones: Well, thank you for [break] I appreciate the public comments.

Desi Navarro: Christopher, it is your turn for public comment.

[silence]

Desi Navarro: Christopher, can you hear us, it is your turn for public comment.

[silence]

Chair Jones: Christopher?

[silence]

Chair Jones: Did we lose him Desi?

Desi Navarro: We must have Mr. Chair.

Chair Jones (12:09): Well, um, we'll invite Christopher back, we have a public comment at the end of the meeting that he is more than welcome to call into. With that, we'll move on

. . . .
